COCKFIGHTING IN OKLAHOMA

Widespread Illegal Conduct, Political Activism to Repeal State Anti-Cockfighting Law

Based on multi-state investigations, no state has more illegal cockfighting than Oklahoma. It is the “cockfighting capital of the United States.”

In March 2021, the Bryan County Sheriff raided a major cockfighting complex in Allison reporting that 200-300 participants scattered when police vehicles appeared. The facility had bleachers and concessions stands. In neighboring Atoka County, in Stringtown, Animal Wellness Action and Showing Animals Respect and Kindness (SHARK) reported an illegal fighting arena to Atoka County Sheriff Tony Head, but the sheriff refused to interrupt the fights or make any arrests despite being provided with detailed information about a regular fighting schedule.

AWA believes that dozens of illegal pits operate throughout the state and that there are hundreds of major cockfighting breeding and training farms, with many of them concentrated in southeast Oklahoma. This report covers just some of the major players we’ve investigated. They are engaging in transparently illegal conduct despite a strong state law and a comprehensive federal law that each makes cockfighting and associated activities a felony.

This widespread illegal conduct occurs despite a strong law against animal fighting. In 2002, voters passed State Question 687 to criminalize staged fights. The provisions of the enacted statute included penalty provisions in line with the state’s anti-dogfighting statute.

Here are some highlights from our 87-page report.

- B.L. Kozad of Comanche County in southwest Oklahoma defiantly appeared on HBO Real Sports with several other cockfighters and all but challenged law enforcement to arrest him for a wide range of illegal animal fighting activities, claiming a constitutional right to engage in cockfighting and showing off his cockfighting farm in Indianola.
- A report that Animal Wellness Action issued two years ago noted that Oklahoma cockfighters exported more roosters to Guam for fighting purposes than any other state. The two top sellers – John Bottoms (and wife Brenda) of LeFlore County and Bill McNatt of Haskell County -- accounted for 40 percent of the 11,500 birds shipped by cockfighters to the small U.S. territory in the western Pacific.

- BNTV, a cockfighting broadcaster based in the Philippines, toured what they considered to be the largest and best-performing U.S. gamefowl farms, as a marketing opportunity for the U.S.-based cockfighters to ship birds to the Asian nation. BNTV featured 12 Oklahomans who touted the fighting prowess of their birds, with many talking about winning international cockfighting derbies. Animal Wellness Action downloaded the videos before BNTV and the cockfighters realized how incriminating these testimonials were.
- In recent days and weeks, SHARK has obtained footage of the massive gamecock farm run by Bobby Fairchild in Coalgate in Coal County. SHARK also obtained Fairchild's wife delivering birds to the U.S. Post Office in Coalgate. It is a federal crime to use the Postal Service to ship fighting birds. Fairchild was featured in a prior report from Animal Wellness Action for maintaining a massive cockfighting complex in Kentucky. He apparently moved to Kentucky from Oklahoma, and then came back to Oklahoma recently.
- Oklahoma has an outspoken and visible political action committee that promotes cockfighting and actively supports candidates for office who are pro-cockfighting. The leaders of the Oklahoma Gamefowl Commission are featured in the report, and our research shows obvious involvement in this illicit enterprise. One of their political allies is State Representative Justin Humphreys, who represents Atoka and Bryan counties and has reintroduced legislation in 2023 to decriminalize certain cockfighting activities.

The Commission touts candidates and made political contributions to a substantial number of candidates, including Rep. Humphreys and other backers of his legislation. During the 2022 elections, they supported the following candidates:

- Cody Maynard, House District 21 (won)
- Tammy Pevehouse-Townley, House District 48 (won)
- Joshua Cantrell, House District 49 (won)
- Eddy Dempsy, House District 1 (won)
- Dr. John Cox for State Superintendent (lost)
- Justin Humphrey, House District 19 (won)
- John Bennett, House District 2 (lost)
- Toni Hasenbeck, House District 65 (won)
- Avery Frix, House District 2 (lost)

In 2022, State Representative Justin Humphrey introduced a bill to gut the penalties in Oklahoma's anti-cockfighting law. His bill also sought to decriminalize training and possessing birds to fight them. He has reintroduced this bill in January 2023 as HB 2530.

It is clear that the Oklahoma Gamefowl Commission and other proponents of the Humphreys bill are using proceeds from illegal cockfighting and gambling activities to lobby and fund state lawmakers on this subject.

Even if they were to succeed with their plan to decriminalize cockfighting, they would still be engaging in felony-level crimes. Federal law bans cockfighting, possession of fighting animals, attending or bringing a minor to a cockfight, or selling or transporting cockfighting implements. No individual is permitted, under federal law, to sell animals for fighting, Oklahoma or elsewhere.

In arguing for his bill, Humphrey mentioned allowing Oklahomans to make money by raising and training fighting animals and shipping them to Guam and the Philippines to make money. But exporting fighting birds to any other jurisdiction, whether a state, territory, or foreign nation, is also a federal felony.

There is no prospect that Congress will weaken that federal animal fighting law. In fact, there is a strong chance that the Congress will again strengthen the law during consideration of the Farm bill in the 118th Congress.

In 2018, when the U.S. House considered an amendment to make animal fighting a felony on every inch of U.S. terrain, Oklahoma's two most senior Congressmen, U.S. Representatives Tom Cole and Frank Lucas, along with the overwhelming majority of Republicans and Democrats, voted in favor of the national law. Not a single Senator opposed that legislation. Law enforcement agencies and sheriffs enthusiastically backed the federal laws against animal fighting, as did all state and national veterinary organizations. The National Chicken Council supported the national law against cockfighting.

When Oklahoma voters approved the anti-cockfighting law in 2002, they did so at the recommendation, among others, of then Oklahoma Governor Frank Keating and U.S. Senator Jim Inhofe. The Oklahoma Supreme Court upheld the law as constitutional in a unanimous decision after cockfighters challenged it. Every legal challenge to the federal law has been stymied, and you can see a summary of all of the major legal cases here.

This report provides detailed information that connects individuals throughout Oklahoma to the cockfighting industry. Based on the assembled evidence, these individuals are routinely committing felony-level penalties.

Oklahoma Breeders Exporting to Guam

According to records Animal Wellness Action has received from the Guamanian Commissioner of Agriculture, the total number of roosters shipped to Guam since 2019 from the United States is 11,516.

Oklahoma ranks #1 in the U.S., having shipped 5,143 roosters to Guam. This is 45% of the total shipped to Guam.

In this 24-minute interview by BNTV, John Bottoms describes himself as a long knife cockfighter and handler and describes in detail that he currently makes a living possessing and training birds for the purpose of cockfighting which is expressly forbidden under the federal law.

Interview Part 2: <https://vimeo.com/677987260/4733d90e24> (awaroosters)

- “Yes sir, we’ve done very well over the last year’s long knife.”
- “John what part do you like best...”
  - – “Training....I train roosters for a lot of people.”
- “Well I’ve always thought the greatest thing about the long knife – and actually from maybe 85’ to 2003 that’s what we competed 80% in was the long knife and the adrenalin, you know, of – when you turn one loose – I mean – that’s the greatest thing...that’s the rush.”
- “...one of the things that I regard most about a gamecock is one that can win when he’s hurt, you know. And when you get too much height then it’s so hard to balance when he gets and cuts on him.”
- “I love a rooster that hits back and can win, you know, because – you know, at the Pit Masters not too many roosters got out clean.”
- “So many people think the long knife is one fly...one of Bruce’s roosters was a monster that got knocked down and won and almost 10 minute time limit and he won on pure gameness....you got to have game roosters.”
- “They got to be super game. You know, to be hit with that big a knife and the shock it puts on them, they got to have a will to live.”
- “They (short knife roosters) need to start almost the same way as a long knife rooster but after the start they need to start hitting up toward the neck area because it’s just hard to kill one with a little knife.”

- And when he's injured very bad it don't take a very strong lick to stop him, you know. And I prefer the Mexican knife compared to the socket short knife."
- "My Lacy blood come from John Slavin – which I've trained a lot of roosters for John – you know, very good roosters."
- "It was one of Gene Betia's yellow legged hatch cocks and we bought him the second time he fought it and then a real good friend of ours knew him well and bought us a hen and that's the original blood we started with."
- "I'm liking them. They deep cut, deep body cutting roosters."
- "Deep cutting and wonderful livability...you can hurt them and with their last dying breath they can kill a rooster...a lot of roosters that's plenty game but they can't take it....let them get hit with one of those four inch knives and see if they don't have to be game to take it."
- "I watched Bruce and Joey win a fight in the Pitmasters...they got him destroyed in the first buckle and nine and a half minutes into the fight he reached up and grabbed that rooster – it looked like he didn't have a prayer – and hit him and stuck in the head and that rooster (tilts head back) and I mean it probably wasn't ten seconds left before the time limit and he beat and win and I mean won straight on want-to and gameness."
- A lot of the deep cutting ability comes from a rooster that intend to hurt the other rooster and the lacies cut really well and boy they got a lot of athletic ability but the yellow legged hatch cut so deep...and I've won a lot of fights with them hurt really bad."
- "And that's what we do, you know, pretty much for a living."

John Bottoms Facebook page also describes the transport of birds across state lines for the purpose of animal fighting which is in violation of the federal law. In the photos dated November 2018, he is in Mexico with Edgar Cruz and their bird was eliminated in the 6th round with 13 points:

Bill McNatt sharing information on how to determine which birds will be good fighting birds

the feet and legs: never breed a cock or hen whose toes turn inboard towards each other. "Little feet" are a sign of Oriental blood. Shy away from this. And finally, all this hocus pocus about the prop toes lining up with the spurs and reading the leg scales, etc., is at best, hocus pocus.

Both cocks and hens should have long, low set wings. Wings set on high, big heads, and short tails are a sure sign of cold blood. When viewed from the side, both cocks and hens should carry their backs at a 50 degree angle. Flat backs and lowheadedness go hand in hand. Low heads or giving the head is a major fault. Pick a hot day, and spar the brood cock until he has fought down, about 20 minutes. Some won't require over five minutes. Watch closely, to see if after he has become Winded he gives his head Does he stop hitting, and start pecking and lunging and giving his head instead? If he gives his head, keep him out of the brood pen. In the early buckles, watch very closely WHERE he hits. He should hit deep into the body, up under the wings and hit hard enough to bring out the fine feathers under the wings.

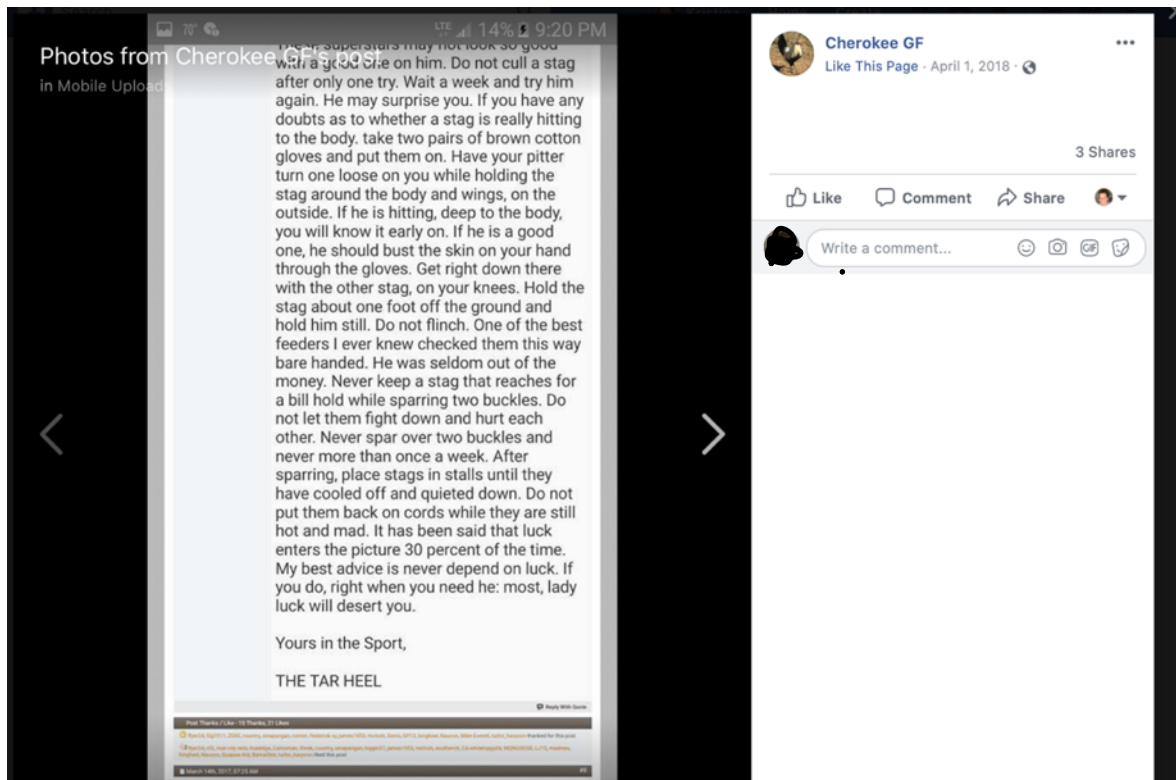

You can select battle fowl using this set of instructions. The best fowl in the world will produce from ten to thirty percent culls, if not more. If you do not possess the ability to weed out these culls, you are no better off than if you were breeding trash fowl. When you spar your stags, bill them, face them twice, and set them down QUICKLY about three feet apart. Have two others pitting for you so you can watch. Never spar over two buckles. Identify the good ones, wait a week and spar these into each other. These superstars may not look so good

Lester Hasbel DECEASED IN 2021
8806 N Harrison
Shawnee, OK 74804
405.793.5409

It is unknown what happened to Lester Hasbel's birds upon his death in 2021.

Interview with BNTV, a cockfighting broadcaster in the Philippines. He's described as their "Hero of the pit." He describes how many derbies he's won, the refereeing that he did and his breeding and exportation of birds for the purpose of cockfighting.

BNTV video interview: <https://vimeo.com/677990726/a919450a65> (awaroosters)

- "I was cocker of the year at several pits."

- Describing his winning birds - "So when they would charge in after them, he was just killing them. Just cutting them to pieces."
- The host asks Lester to describe the rules he's made when referring fights. Lester states, "...when you raise them up they got to peck or they're going to lose." and "I said we're going to do this just like we do on the long knife." And "long knife and short knife is the same way now."
- "best cock I ever fought...I paid him $450 and people thought I was crazy." and "it put me on the map."
- Lester Hasbel has 138 fly pens and another farm where there are 219 stags and Lester said, "I have 24 cocks that we show". (By "show" he means fights)
- The host asked Lester what types of birds he has ready to sell now and he says, "I probably have 60 already on the ground." And then he shared his phone number for customers to call.

Interview on BNTV, a cockfighting broadcaster in the Philippines, describes possessing, breeding and exporting birds for the purpose of cockfighting which is in violation of the federal law:

BNTV Interview: <https://vimeo.com/677993845/2c26ac3f4b> (awaroosters)

- The host recognizes Blake, Jeff's son, is there with him and is very involved and Jeff states, "Yeah, it runs in the blood, he's got it from both sides. My father was a rooster fighter. My wife's father was a rooster fighter, so he has no choice." (Blake Pearce is not the Secretary of the Oklahoma Gamefowl Commission and is documented further in this report)
- When talking about his bloodlines success he states, "We've been very successful with them" and, "We've done very well with them there."
- The host asks how to get in touch about the famous birds, and Jeff states, "Call me in the fall...I'll have young trios come October."

Jeff Pearce exports to the Philippines using a broker

A screenshot of a Facebook post. The post is from a page named 'El Gallo Broker', dated December 3, 2014. The text of the post reads: 'Granja de Jeff Pearce Sangres: Hatch P.V., Roundhead, Kelso, Greys, y Blacks'. Below this, it says 'Jeff Pearce Farm Bloods: Hatch P. V., Roundhead, Kelso, Greys, and Blacks'. There are icons for 'Like', 'Follow', and 'Share' at the top of the post. The profile picture of 'El Gallo Broker' shows a wooden structure. The main image of the post is a collage: a large photo of two men standing in a field, and three smaller photos of roosters. Interview dated January 2020: <https://purebredwarrior.com/a-mistake-is-a-great-teacher-bobby-fairchild/>

“Mhar Delaben: Your birds are sought after around the Globe, how do you make sure that they will perform as advertising? What do you do to maintain or exceed your status?

Bobby Fairchild: Well, for one thing, we never take for granted that they are what they would want. Continuously look for different ways to improve the performance of these purebred warriors. Of course, we do not nor will we participate in illegal cockfights in the United States. I have never been to an illegal cockfight nor do I intend to, but we keep up with the things that our customers are looking for and we check on the performance to make sure that our friends and customers continue to reap the results that they have always reaped and we stay as close to the solid foundation as we can.”

“Mhar Delaben: Have you tried competing in the Philippines? (What are your experience)

Bobby Fairchild: Yes, we have completed a few times with our friend Jessery Palmaris, Jessery has brought me to the Philippines more than once, treated me with the utmost respect and has come to be a true friend. I look forward to the day that I get to see Jessery again probably on Filipino soil, Jessery and I have had very good success. At the world slasher cup as well as the Candelaria, we haven’t won them yet together but I see it will happen. We’ve always been a very strong force.”

“Mhar Delaben: Would you name some Breeders in the Philippines that were using your birds in their campaign?

Bobby Fairchild: Well, I will name a few of them but some of the big-name breeders like to keep their secrets since they spent good money in the fowl that they have. My number one customer in the Philippines and always been is Jessery Palmaris.”

 BNTV Video: <https://vimeo.com/678017371/e899550b6f> (awaroosters)

- The host states, “At our show, and this is the Thunderbird U.S. Game Fowl Tour, we go around looking for good sources of good material for the people back home, for if they want to upgrade their breeding materials...your fame precedes you because we know for a fact your birds win more than 80% in Mexico.”
- “It’s a short knife, like inch and a half weapon with a ten-minute time limit.”
- “Whatever weapon you tie on him will be good. Whether it’s a long knife or short knife or gaff, either one, you know. In my opinion if you got a good hard deliberate hitting rooster that tries to kill one it don’t matter what weapon you got on, it’s going down.”
- “I like to select out the ones that’s maybe head and shoulders above the rest, and maybe spar them, you know and give you a good idea of what kind of talent they have.”

- “Oh yeah I want to spar them, you know to make sure they got some ability to hit and cut and reach and do everything that I like to do. I wouldn’t breed one that I didn’t at least get to see spar several times to satisfy me that they’re just doing their job.”
- “He just got back from Mexico.” “Right. He just got home with a lot of money, a lot of wins.”

- “I own and possess gamecocks for the only purpose you can which is to harvest. The method of harvest of gamecocks has been allowing them to fight another gamecock for more than 3,000 years, the majority of our founding fathers like George Washington and Andrew Jackson harvested their gamecocks by fighting them on what is now the White House lawn.”
- “Understand that animal welfare laws are the same thing that Adolf Hitler used in the early days of Nazi Germany.”
- “The legislature of Alabama passed the first anti-agenda 21 bill in America but maybe you are not aware of what UN Agenda 21 actually is and what you are advocating in support of. UN Agenda 21 = The Pagan’s bible.”

Bryant Gumbel hosted an HBO special featuring Cozad and several other Oklahoma cockfighters in 2017: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Z1Q9D851sNQ&has\_verified=1

- Cozad describes cockfighting as his God given right, he has about 300 roosters on his gamefarm. “I know I’ve got good bloodlines because I’ve competed these birds.”
- “I had one that got paralyzed ten seconds into the fight...two and a half hours later he won the fight...and he never did get his legs back.”
- “What’s more important, his life or your money?” - “My money.”
